In the revision process, the commodity "stone fruit at 0.2 ppm" was inadvertently deleted from § 180.364(a). The tolerance for stone fruit is therefore restored by this amendment.

47 CFR Part 74

Television.

In the matter of oversight of the radio and TV broadcast rules.

Order

Adopted: June 16, 1982.

Released: June 23, 1982.

1. In this Order, the Commission focuses its attention on the oversight of its radio and TV broadcast rules. Modifications are made herein to update, delete, clarify or correct broadcast regulations as described in the following amendment summaries:

(a) Section 73.45, Antenna systems, is revised to clarify the requirement that licensees making changes in their AM antenna systems must not only file technical data with the FCC, but obtain prior authority to resume power determination by the direct method in conformance with § 73.54, Antenna resistance and reactance measurements. (Appendix para. 1)

(b) The text in § 73.51, Determining operating power, can be interpreted to imply, in paragraph (d), that AM station licensees, experiencing antenna damage or defects or making antenna changes may, on an optional basis, use the indirect method of power determination. Actually licensees must use the indirect method in such circumstances, and the rule is clarified to so state. (Appendix para. 2)

(c) The licenses issued to AM stations using directional antenna systems specify certain locations known as field monitoring points at which measurements are made to determine if the antenna is in correct adjustment. These points are usually located between 1 and 4 miles from the antenna site, in open areas free of overhead wiring and nearby structures that can distort the accuracy of the measurements. The station license describes these monitoring points by giving the route to the point, starting at the transmitter site, and by using distinctive, clearly identifiable landmarks. Frequently, however, both the roads used to locate the point and the descriptive landmarks change due to terrain modifications such as highway construction, subdivision and commercial developments, and deterioration. Points used may no longer be satisfactory due to the new construction or inaccessibility. The present rules contain no guidance for licensees on procedures to obtain a modification of the station license when the routing directions and landmarks must be modified or when replacement monitoring points must be selected. Since satisfactory monitoring points are necessary to insure against mutual interference between stations, a new § 73.158 titled "Monitoring point locations" is being added to Subpart A of the rules. This new rule imposes no additional requirements on licensees but will clarify the FCC's requirements and, by entering into the rules, will eliminate unnecessary correspondence and phone calls between the FCC and licensees. (Appendix para. 3)

(d) The headnote for § 73.181 reads "Introduction." This section introduces the rules' sections pertaining to AM broadcast technical standards in Subpart A of Part 73. For purposes of clarity, the section title is expanded to read "Introduction to AM technical standards." (Appendix para. 4)

(e) The extent to which an FM station may duplicate the programming of an AM station, owned by the same licensee in the same local area, is governed by § 73.242, Duplication of AM and FM programming. Prior to adoption of the new "short form" renewal application the renewal applicant was required to make a showing, on former radio renewal Form 303-R, to verify compliance with the rule. This verification is not required by the new renewal Form 303-S. The rule is modified accordingly. (Appendix para. 5)

(f) The Commission, ever inclined to embrace rule modifications that reduce its administrative work load and that of broadcasters, herein relaxes its procedural requirements pertaining to program test authority (PTA).

On January 16, 1980, the Commission amended the procedures by which holders or broadcast construction permits could commence program service with new or modified facilities. Order 76 FCC 2d 40. Prior to the January 1980 rule amendments, the permittees were required to file a completed license application, request authority to commence program tests, and then wait for FCC authorization to begin program service. Under the amended procedures, permittees of stations with non-directional antennas could commence program service immediately upon completion of construction by simply notifying the FCC and filing the application for the station license within ten days of the beginning of the program tests. Permittees of stations with directional antennas are still required to file the license application with full engineering data on the antenna and wait for FCC authorization to commence program service. In reviewing our procedures for authorizing directional antennas, we find that the use of such antennas by TV stations is so minimally problematical, compared to radio directional antennas, that further relaxation to the rules can be made whereby TV permittees can also commence program tests without prior FCC approval. Directional TV antennas are not used to prevent mutual interference between stations, but are used to improve the efficiency of signal coverage. All technical data on a TV directional antenna required for FCC review is available on the Construction Permit application. Therefore, § 73.1620 is being amended so that all TV permittees may begin program service upon completion of construction. (Appendix para. 6)

On this same subject, in § 73.512, Special procedures applicable to Class D noncommercial educational stations, the sentence in paragraph (d) states that secondary Class D stations must cease operation when program tests for the TV or commercial FM are "authorized." Pursuant to the change in the rule allowing program service to begin without the delaying request for "authority," the rule is changed to require cessation by the Class D where "program tests * * * are commenced." (Appendix para. 7)

(g) The Note following the last paragraph in § 73.1665, Main transmitters, states that after January 1, 1969, no new licenses will be issued nor will existing licenses be renewed for alternate main transmitters operating into a main antenna system. The Note also eliminates the practice of identifying, or station licenses, specific transmitters as type accepted for broadcast use. The Note can now be deleted because all 3 year licenses have expired since the effective date of the Note, January 1, 1979. (Appendix para. 8)

(h) In the Memorandum Opinion and Order in BC Docket 80-253, adopted September 30, 1981, the Commission amended § 73.3500 of the broadcast rules (Application and Report Forms) by adding new renewal application forms for commercial and noncommercial AM/FM/TV stations. Form 303-S was incorrectly titled "Standard Application for Renewal of License for Commercial Broadcast Stations." The form is used for renewal applications of noncommercial educational stations also, and correction is made herein to reflect that. Also the form title is corrected to drop the term "Standard renewal * * *" to read exactly as the title printed on the 303-S, "Application for Renewal of License for Commercial and Noncommercial Broadcast Stations." (Appendix para. 9)

(i) During the authorized construction of a new broadcast station or modification of an existing station, the permittee may find that it is either impossible or undesirable to conform to the terms of the authorization. An example would be where the original antenna site is no longer available. In such cases the permittee must file an application for modification of the construction permit. However, such modification application does not automatically extend the expiration date of the existing construction permit. The rule on applications for construction permits or for modification of an outstanding permit (Section 73.3533) is herein amended by adding a new paragraph advising permittees seeking modification that it is necessary to request an extension of time if needed, in which to construct the station or make the authorized changes by filing FCC Form 701 (Application for Extension * * * Permit * * *). (Appendix para. 10)

(j) Section 73.3539, Application for renewal of license, is herein revised to conform to the changes in broadcast station renewal procedures and forms adopted in BC Docket No. 80-253. Report and Order, 46 FR 26236, May 11, 1981. The numbers and titles of forms eliminated in the rulemaking will be deleted and new forms data will be cross-referenced to § 73.3500, Application and Report Forms. The requirement to include a date and file number reference on the application, confirming filing of financial and contract reports, no longer pertains and is deleted. Also paragraph (d) of this section is inaccurately worded and is corrected herein. (Appendix para. 11)

(k) In March, 1977, the Commission reviewed its rules and policies concerning network programming on affiliated AM and FM stations and the agreements regarding these audio services. On March 23, 1977, the Commission released its Report, Statement of Policy, and Order in this matter, closing Docket 20721. The citations to it are herein added to the listing of FCC policies as § 73.4154, Network/AM, FM Station Affiliation Agreements. (Appendix para. 12)

(l) The regulations pertaining to sponsor identification and related requirements are found in § 73.1212. Commission interpretations and policy utterances in connection with these provisions are contained in the Public Notice dated September 3, 1975, and entitled "Applicability of Sponsorship Identification Rules." The citations to it are herein added to the listing of FCC Policies as § 73.4242. (Appendix para. 13)

(m) Commission rules set forth the procedures for coordinating an application for a new broadcast station with the Field Operations Bureau when proposed construction is in the vicinity of an FCC monitoring station. For broadcast stations (AM, FM, TV and International), the technical requirements and pre-construction consultation directives are in § 73.1030. The same provisions also apply to stations authorized under Part 74 of the rules (in § 74.12). Unfortunately, this rule section, after establishing the requirements in the opening paragraph, via a cross reference to § 73.1030, includes this § 73.1030 rule text in paragraph (d) of § 74.12 as one of a list of exceptions to the rule. The considerable confusion caused by this apparent contradiction is removed by eliminating paragraph (d) in § 74.12 in its entirety and retaining the reference to § 73.1030. (Appendix para. 14)

(n) In the operation of broadcast remote pickup stations, news reporters may wish to use a small hand held or pack carried transmitter to obtain a better viewing position, to conduct interviews or achieve a greater degree of mobility than is possible with a transmitter installed in a vehicle. However these small transmitters may not have the necessary power for the transmissions to reach the broadcast station's base station receiver. These are, on occasion, located at a considerable distance from the site of the remote broadcast. The remote pickup station rules provide for the operation of a higher powered transmitter located in a vehicle positioned at the broadcast site as a relay between the hand held unit and the base station receiver. The operating requirements for mobile remote pickup stations, used for this relay function, can be confused with the separate operating requirements for mobile repeater stations, which are base stations at a fixed location used for extending the communication range of mobile units over a large area. Therefore, we are adding a new definition of "Remote pickup mobile relay unit" to the rules and clarifying the difference between such units and fixed repeater stations. The mobile relay units may be operated unattended and also be used to transmit talk-back information from the station's studio to the reporter with the hand-carried unit. When a mobile (vehicular) transmitter is operated on a second or additional frequency for this "talk-back" function, the talk-back transmissions are restricted to 2.5 watts because of the limited range that is necessary. The present wording of the rule covering these requirements has been misinterpreted by some licensees to mean that they must restrict the operating power of the mobile repeater station, on the frequency used to communicate with the studio, to 2.5 watts. Rule §§ 74.401 and 74.431 are clarified to remove the misunderstanding. (Appendix paragraphs 15 and 16)

(o) In § 74.602, Frequency assignment, the Commission established that certain frequency bands are shared between TV auxiliary stations and community antenna relay stations. Paragraph (a) of this Section is quite clear regarding shared use regulations. However, paragraph (f) does not reflect the conditions for shared use or the protection for stations authorized prior to the effective date of the rule. Therefore, paragraph (f) is corrected accordingly. (Appendix para. 17)

(p) An updated Alphabetical Index, with appropriate additions, is included herein as Appendix B.

2. No substantive changes are made herein which impose additional burdens or remove provisions relied upon by licensees or the public. We conclude, for the reasons set forth above, that these revisions will serve the public interest.

3. The amendments are implemented by authority designated by the Commission to the Chief, Broadcast Bureau. Inasmuch as these amendments impose no additional burdens and raise no issue upon which comments would serve any useful purpose, prior notice of rule making, effective date provisions and public procedure thereon are unnecessary pursuant to the Administrative Procedure and Judicial Review Act provisions of 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(3)(B).

4. Since a general notice of proposed rulemaking is not required, the Regulatory Flexibility Act does not apply.

5. Therefore, it is ordered, that pursuant to sections 4(i), 3030(r) and 5(d)(1) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and §§ 0.71 and 0.281 of the Commission's Rules, Parts 73 and 74 of Volume III of the FCC Rules and Regulations are amended as set forth in the attached appendix, effective

PART 73—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

1. Section 73.45 is amended by revising paragraph (c) to read as follows:

§ 73.45 Antenna systems.

(c) Should any changes be made or otherwise occur which would possibly alter the resistance of the antenna system, the licensee must commence the determination of the operating power by the indirect method. (If the changes are due to the construction of FM or TV transmitting facilities, see § 73.316 or § 73.658.) Upon completion of any necessary repairs or adjustments, or upon completion of authorized construction or modifications, the licensee must make a new determination of the antenna resistance using the procedures described in § 73.54, and an application must be filed requesting authority to resume power determination by the direct method. Use of the direct method of power determination may not be resumed until authorization is received from the FCC. Application to determine power by the direct method is filed with the FCC in Washington, D.C., as follows:

2. Section 73.51 is amended by revising paragraph (d) to read as follows:

§ 73.51 Determining operating power.

(d) When it is not possible to use the direct method of power determination due to technical reasons, the indirect method of determining antenna input power (see paragraphs (e) and (f) of this section) may be used on a temporary basis. Specific authority from the FCC is not required, however a notation must be made in the operating log for each day of using the indirect method of power determination. The indirect method must be used in the following situations:

3. New § 73.158 is added to Subpart A to read as follows:

§ 73.158 Directional antenna monitoring points.

(a) When a licensee of a station using a directional antenna system finds that a field monitoring point, as specified on the station authorization, is no longer accessible for use or is unsuitable because of nearby construction or other disturbances to the measured field, an informal application to change the monitoring point location is to be promptly submitted to the FCC in Washington, D.C. The application must include the following information:

- (1) A partial proof of performance conducted on the radial containing the monitoring point to be changed.
- (2) A written description of the routing to the new selected monitoring point.
- (3) A map showing the location and routing to the new selected monitoring point.

(4) A photograph showing the new monitoring point in relation to nearby permanent landmarks that can be used in locating the point accurately at all times throughout the year. Do not use seasonal or temporary features in either the written descriptions or photographs as landmarks for locating field points.

(b) When the descriptive routing to reach any of the monitoring points as shown on the station license is no longer correct due to road or building construction or other changes, the licensee must prepare and file with the FCC, in Washington, D.C., a request for a corrected station license showing the new routing description. A copy of the description is to be posted with the existing station license. The notification is to include the information specified in (2) and (3) of paragraph (a) above.

4. The section title of § 73.181 is amended to read as follows:

§ 73.181 Introduction to AM technical standards.

§ 73.242 [Amended]

5. In § 73.242 Duplication of AM and FM programming, paragraph (d), the final paragraph in the rule, is eliminated entirely.

6. In § 73.1620, paragraphs (a)(1) and (a)(2) are amended to read as follows:

§ 73.1620 Program tests.

(1) The permittee of a nondirectional AM or FM station, or a nondirectional or directional TV station, may begin program tests upon notification to the FCC in Washington, D.C. and the Engineer in Charge of the station's radio district, provided that within 10 days thereafter, an application for a license is filed with the FCC in Washington, D.C.

(2) The permittee of an AM or FM station with a directional antenna system must file an application for license requesting program test authority with the FCC in Washington, D.C., at least 10 days prior to the date on which it desires to begin program tests. Also, an antenna proof of performance must be filed with the request by an AM station with a directional antenna.

7. Section 73.512, paragraph (d) is amended to read as follows:

§ 73.512 Special procedures applicable to Class D noncommercial educational stations.

(d) Class D noncommercial educational (secondary) stations (see § 73.506(a)(2)) will be permitted to continue to operate only so long as no interference (as defined in § 73.509) is caused to any TV or commercial FM broadcast stations. In the event that the Class D (secondary) station would cause interference to a TV or commercial FM broadcast station after that Class D (secondary) station is authorized, the Class D (secondary) station must cease operation when program tests for the TV or commercial FM broadcast station commence. The Class D (secondary) station may apply for a construction permit (see § 73.3533) to change to another frequency or antenna site where it would not cause interference (as defined in § 73.509). If the Class D (secondary) station must cease operation before the construction permit is granted, an application for temporary authorization (pursuant to § 73.3542) to operate with the proposed facilities may be submitted; where appropriate, such temporary authorization can be granted.

§ 73.1665 [Amended]

8. Section 73.1665, main transmitters, is amended by removing the note which follows paragraph (c) of this section.

§ 73.3500 [Amended]

9. Section 73.3500 is amended by correcting the Title of Form No. 303-S to read: Application for Renewal of License for Commercial and Noncommercial Educational AM, FM and TV Broadcast Stations.

10. In § 73.3533, the section heading and paragraph (a) are amended, and new paragraph (b) is added to read as follows:

§ 73.3533 Application for construction permit or modification of construction permit.

(a) Application for construction permit, or modification of a construction permit, for a new facility or change in an existing facility is to be made on the following forms:

(b) The filing of an application for modification of construction permit does not extend the expiration date of the construction permit. Extension of the expiration date must be applied for on FCC Form 701 in accordance with the provisions of § 73.3534.

11. Section 73.3539 is amended by revising paragraph (b) and introductory paragraph (d) to read as follows:

§ 73.3539 Application for renewal of license.

(b) No application for renewal of license of any broadcast station will be considered unless there is on file with the FCC the information currently required by §§ 73.3612-73.3615, inclusive, for the particular class of station.

(d) Renewal application forms titles and numbers are listed in § 73.3500, Application and Report Forms.

12. New § 73.4154 is added to Part 73, Volume III to read as follows:

§ 73.4154 Network/AM, FM station affiliation agreements.

See Report, Statement of Policy, and Order, Docket 20721, FCC 77-206, adopted March 10, 1977. 63 FCC 2d 674.

13. New § 73.4242 is added to Part 73, Volume III to read as follows:

§ 73.4242 Sponsorship Identification Rules, Applicability of.

See Public Notice dated September 3, 1975, 40 FR 41936, September 9, 1975.

PART 74—EXPERIMENTAL, AUXILIARY, AND SPECIAL BROADCAST AND OTHER PROGRAM DISTRIBUTIONAL SERVICES

§ 74.12 [Amended]

14. Section 74.12 is amended by removing paragraph (d), the final paragraph in the rule, in its entirety.

15. In § 74.401, a new definition "Remote pickup mobile relay unit" is added in alphabetical sequence to read as follows:

§ 74.401 [Amended]

Remote pickup mobile relay unit. A vehicular receiver-transmitter repeater used to provide extended communications range for a low-power hand-carried or pack-carried transmitter.

16. In § 74.431, paragraph (c) and paragraph (c)(2) are amended, paragraph (c)(3) is redesignated as paragraph (c)(4), and new paragraph (c)(3) is added to read as follows:

§ 73.431 Special rules applicable to remote pickup stations.

(c) When a remote pickup mobile station is used as a vehicular repeater at the scene of an event to be broadcast and the operator-reporter wishes to leave the position of the mobile station in order to conduct interviews, obtain a better vantage point to view the scene or otherwise more effectively cover the event, the mobile station may be operated as an unattended remote pickup mobile relay unit, subject to the following conditions:

(2) The unattended vehicular repeater transmitter must be so equipped that it will only be activated by the carrier of the hand-carried or pack-carried transmitter.

(3) The unattended vehicular repeater may also be used to relay transmissions to the operator of the hand-carried or pack-carried unit. However, a transmitter operating on an additional frequency of this talk-back function may not exceed 2.5 watts.

17. In § 74.602, paragraph (f) is amended to read as follows:

§ 74.602 Frequency assignment.

(f) Community antenna relay stations may be assigned channels in Band D between 12,700 and 13,200 MHz subject to the condition that no harmful interference is caused to TV broadcast STL and TV intercity relay stations authorized at the time of such grants. Similarly, new TV broadcast STL and TV intercity relay stations shall not cause harmful interference to community antenna relay stations authorized at the time of such grants.

(1) The use of channels between 12,700 and 13,200 MHz by TV pickup stations is subject to the condition that no harmful interference is caused to community antenna relay, TV broadcast STL and TV intercity relay stations.

(2) The band 13,150 and 13,200 MHz is reserved exclusively for the assignment of TV broadcast pickup and CARS pickup stations on a co-equal basis within a 50 km (approximately 31.1 miles) radius of each of the 100 television markets set forth in § 76.51 of the FCC rules. Fixed TV auxiliary stations licensed pursuant to applications accepted for filing before September 1, 1979, may continue operation on channels in the 13,150 to 13,200 MHz band subject to periodic license renewals.
