Department of Labor

Wage and Hour Division

Minimum Wages for Federal and Federally Assisted Construction; General
Wage Determination Decisions

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Employment Standards
Administration, Wage and Hour
DivisionMinimum Wages for Federal and Federally Assisted Construction;
General Wage Determination
Decisions

General wage determination decisions of the Secretary of Labor specify, in accordance with applicable law and on the basis of information available to the Department of Labor from its study of local wage conditions and from other sources, the basic hourly wage rates and fringe benefit payments which are determined to be prevailing for the described classes of laborers and mechanics employed on construction projects of the character and in the localities specified therein.

The determinations in these decisions of such prevailing rates and fringe benefits have been made by authority of the Secretary of Labor pursuant to the provisions of the Davis-Bacon Act of March 3, 1931, as amended (46 Stat. 1494, as amended, 40 U.S.C. 276a) and of other Federal statutes referred to in 29 CFR 1.1 (including the statutes listed at 36 FR 306 following Secretary of Labor's Order No. 24-70) containing provisions for the payment of wages which are dependent upon determination by the Secretary of Labor under the Davis-Bacon Act; and pursuant to the provisions of part 1 of subtitle A of title 29 of Code of Federal Regulations, Procedure for Predetermination of Wage Rates (37 FR 21138) and of Secretary of Labor's Orders 12-71 and 15-71 (36 FR 8755, 8756). The prevailing rates and fringe benefits determined in these decisions shall, in accordance with the provisions of the foregoing statutes, constitute the minimum wages payable on Federal and federally assisted construction projects to laborers and mechanics of the specified classes engaged on contract work of the character and in the localities described therein.

Good cause is hereby found for not utilizing notice and public procedure thereon prior to the issuance of these determinations as prescribed in 5 U.S.C. 553 and not providing for delay in effective date as prescribed in that section, because the necessity to issue construction industry wage determination frequently and in large volume causes procedures to be impractical and contrary to the public interest.

General wage determination decisions are effective from their date of publication in the Federal Register without limitation as to time and are to be used in accordance with the provisions of 29 CFR Parts 1 and 5. Accordingly, the applicable decision together with any modifications issued subsequent to its publication date shall be made a part of every contract for performance of the described work within the geographic area indicated as required by an applicable Federal prevailing wage law and 29 CFR, Part 5. The wage rates contained therein shall be the minimum paid under such contract by contractors and subcontractors on the work.

Modifications and Supersedeas
Decisions to General Wage
Determination Decisions

Modifications and supersedeas decisions to general wage determination decisions are based upon information obtained concerning changes in prevailing hourly wage rates and fringe benefit payments since the decisions were issued.

The determinations of prevailing rates and fringe benefits made in the modifications and supersedeas decisions have been made by authority of the Secretary of Labor pursuant to the provisions of the Davis-Bacon Act of March 3, 1931, as amended (46 Stat. 1494, as amended, 40 U.S.C. 276a) and of other Federal statutes referred to in 29 CFR 1.1 (including the statutes listed at 36 FR 306 following Secretary of Labor's Order No. 24-70) containing provisions for the payment of wages which are dependent upon determination by the Secretary of Labor under the Davis-Bacon Act; and pursuant to the provisions of part 1 of subtitle A of title 29 of Code of Federal Regulations, Procedure for Predetermination of Wage Rates (37 FR 21138) and of Secretary of Labor's orders 13-71 and 15-71 (36 FR 8755, 8756). The prevailing rates and fringe benefits determined in foregoing general wage determination decisions, as hereby modified, and/or superseded shall, in accordance with the provisions of the foregoing statutes, constitute the minimum wages payable on Federal and federally assisted construction projects to laborers and mechanics of the specified classes engaged in contract work of the character and in the localities described therein.

Modifications and supersedeas decisions are effective from their date of publication in the Federal Register without limitation as to time and are to be used in accordance with the provisions of 29 CFR Parts 1 and 5.

Any person, organization, or governmental agency having an interest in the wages determined as prevailing is encouraged to submit wage rate information for consideration by the Department. Further information and self-explanatory forms for the purpose of submitting this data may be obtained by writing to the U.S. Department of Labor, Employment Standards Administration, Wage and Hour Division, Office of Government Contract Wage Standards, Division of Government Contract Wage Determinations, Washington, D.C. 20210. The cause for not utilizing the rulemaking procedures prescribed in 5 U.S.C. 553 has been set forth in the original General Determination Decision.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

34 CFR Part 682

Family Contribution Schedule for the Guaranteed Student Loan Program for 1983-84

AGENCY: Department of Education.

ACTION: Final regulations.

SUMMARY: The Secretary issues regulations for use in determining student eligibility for interest benefits under the Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL) Program. These regulations provide expected family contributions (EFC) for use under the GSL Program in accordance with recent legislation. This family contribution schedule will apply to loans for any period of instruction which begins on or after July 1, 1983, but not later than June 30, 1984.

EFFECTIVE DATES: These regulations that establish the 1983-84 GSL Family Contribution Schedule are expected to take effect April 18, 1983, except § 682.612(b)(6), which contains information collection requirements under review by OMB. If you want to know the effective date of these regulations, call or write the Department of Education contact person. At a later date, the Secretary will publish a notice in the Federal Register stating the effective date of § 682.612(b)(6) of these regulations.

ADDRESS: Comments should be addressed to Mr. Larry Oxendine, Policy Section, Guaranteed Student Loan Branch, Division of Policy and Program Development, Office of Student Financial Assistance, 400 Maryland Avenue, SW., (Room 4310, ROB-3) Washington, D.C. 20202.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ralph Madden or Larry Oxendine, telephone number (202) 245-2475.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:Background

Section 428(a) of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended, provides that a student may qualify for interest benefits under the GSL program only if the adjusted gross income of the student's family is: (a) less than or equal to $30,000; or (b) greater than $30,000 and the institution the student attends determines that the student has demonstrated financial need for the loan.

Modification of the 1982-83 Family Contribution Schedule for use for 1983-84:

Section 9 of the Student Financial Assistance Technical Amendments Act of 1982 (Pub. L. 97-301) requires that the 1983-84 GSL family contribution schedule (for the period July 1, 1983, through June 30, 1984) be the family contribution schedule for the period July 1, 1982, through June 30, 1983 (the 1982-83 family contribution schedule, as published in the Federal Register on May 3, 1982, 47 FR 19086). Section 9 of Pub. L. 97-301 stipulates that the 1982-83 family contribution schedule be modified to reflect "the most recent and relevant data" for use as the 1983-84 schedule.

Accordingly, this schedule continues the use of systems of financial need analysis approved by the Secretary for use in the National Direct Student Loan, College Work-Study, and Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant Programs (campus-based programs) and a set of tables, added as Appendix B to these regulations. This schedule modifies the 1982-83 family contribution schedule in the following respects:

(1) The 1982-83 schedule applies to loans for periods of instruction beginning on or after July 1, 1982, but not later than June 30, 1983. This schedule applies to loans for periods of instruction beginning on or after July 1, 1983, but not later than June 30, 1984, regardless of when an institution completes its portion of the student's GSL application.

(2) The definition of "independent student" in § 682.301(d) takes into account the student's status in 1982 and 1983, rather than in 1981 and 1982, unless the student is married at the time the determination of adjusted gross family income is made, in which case the student's status in 1983 alone, rather than 1982, is taken into account.

(3) The schedule, in § 682.301(c), requires the educational institution, in determining the adjusted gross income of the student's family, to consider the income reported by each family member on the 1982 Federal income tax return, rather than on the 1981 Federal income tax return.

(4) The schedule is modified to require an educational institution, in determining which of the approved need analysis systems may be used to calculate the student's expected family contribution, to consider whether the student has received financial assistance under the campus-based programs for the 1983-84 award year rather than the 1982-83 award year.

(5) The expected family contribution amounts in Tables A, B, C and D of Appendix B are revised to reflect the 1982 Federal income tax and F.I.C.A. (Social Security) deductions and the Standard Maintenance Allowance derived from the most recent Bureau of Labor Statistics low budget standard.

Procedure for Determining Eligibility for Interest Benefits

In order to determine the adjusted gross income of the student's family for loans for the period July 1, 1983, through June 30, 1984, a postsecondary institution must consider the income reported by each family member on his or her 1982 Federal income tax return. The adjusted gross family income for the dependent student means the adjusted gross income of (1) the student, (2) the student's spouse, if any, and (3) the student's mother and father; for the independent student, only the income of the student and his or her spouse is considered. The institution determines the adjusted gross income of the student's family based upon data provided, and certified to, by each person whose income must be considered. The school then determines the student's EFC using the tables appended here or an approved need analysis system. For all information required in this calculation (e.g., total number of family members and number of family members enrolled in postsecondary institutions), the institution relies on statements made, and certified to, by the student. Those contributions differ for dependent and independent students. For purposes of these regulations a dependent student is a student who does not qualify as an independent student.

The expected family contribution coupled with the student's estimated financial assistance is subtracted from the student's estimated cost of attendance to determine financial need and eligibility for interest benefits under the GSL Program.

Methods of Determining Expected Family Contribution

As in the 1981-82 and 1982-83 GSL family contribution schedules, the 1983-84 schedule authorizes two methods for institutions to use in determining a student's EFC. The first is that found in the tables published here as Appendix B to these regulations; the second, the systems used for computing financial need under the campus-based programs.

An institution may always use a system of need analysis approved for the campus-based programs to calculate an expected family contribution to determine eligibility for interest benefits. It must use the same EFC it determined according to a need analysis system approved for the campus-based programs if the student has been awarded aid under a campus-based program. All but two of the systems approved for campus-based programs are based on the concept of Uniform Methodology (UM). The Secretary has approved the use of systems based on UM for the campus-based and GSL Programs because, as will be discussed here, he considers it a consistent and responsible approach to measuring a family's ability to contribute toward the student's cost of education.

UM is a model of need analysis developed in 1975 by the National Task Force on Student Aid Problems (Keppel Task Force), after consultation with financial aid administrators, educational associations, students, Federal and State governments, and national need servicers. The standard or model thus developed rests on the following principles: to the extent that they are able, parents have the primary responsibility to pay for their children's education; parents will, as they are able, contribute funds for their sons' and daughters' education; students, as well as their parents, have a responsibility to help pay for their education; the family should be accepted in its present financial condition; and a need analysis system must evaluate families in a consistent and equitable manner, which recognizes that special circumstances can and do alter a family's ability to contribute.

Under UM the expected family contribution for a dependent student comprises a progressively increasing contribution from parental disposable income, a contribution from parental assets, and a contribution from the student's resources, which include expected earnings, assets, and non-taxable income and benefits. The independent student's expected family contribution comprises all the disposable income of both the student and his or her spouse, and a portion of their assets.

In the GSL tables found in Appendix B to these regulations, the Secretary has adopted, as in past years, a system of need measurement based on several aspects of the UM model. Under these tables, students are classified as dependent or independent, and each class is assigned different expected family contribution rates. Unlike UM, the need system used here has no requirement that families contribute any portion of family assets to educational costs. Like UM, the GSL system does require the family of the independent student to contribute all disposable income to the student's cost of education, but only requires contribution of a portion of the disposable income of the family of the dependent student.

The assignment of different assessment rates to the family incomes of dependent and independent students is both reasonable and generally accepted in the higher education community. The rates differ for two reasons. First, independent student borrowers acquire, either directly under community property statutes, or indirectly through their right to support, a claim on their spouses' future earnings, enhanced because of the education paid for with the student loan. Dependent student borrowers have a legal claim on their parents for support only until they marry or attain the age of majority. Traditionally, they have no legal duty to share any future earnings with their parents. Because spouses of independent students have such a claim to their future earnings, the spouses stand to recoup, over time, funds contributed to the borrowers' educational costs. The parents of dependent students, who ordinarily have no legal claim to the earnings of emancipated children, never recoup the funds spent on the dependent borrowers' cost of education. For the former, the contribution is an investment; for the latter, purely an expense. Different assessment rates on their respective family incomes are essential to respect this difference and treat both groups fairly. Second, the financial responsibilities of the two classes are so different that different rates should be applied to treat both equitably. The responsibilities of parents of dependent students, such as accrued debts, past and future educational expenses for siblings of the borrower, unusual medical expenses, and provisions for retirement, are both different from, and greater than, such needs are for independent students. Furthermore, because of the age of the parents, those needs are less susceptible to deferral than they are for independent students. Independent students, as a group, are not only younger but also likely to have fewer dependents than parents of dependent students, and are therefore better able in the long run to handle financial responsibilities deferred during schooling than the parents of dependent students.

In addition to distinguishing between families of dependent and independent students, the GSL tables also divide borrowers into those with families headed by single persons and those headed by married couples. The tables appear to impose different financial contribution requirements on families headed by single persons and those headed by married couples. The Federal tax rates differ for the two groups; therefore, the disposable incomes differ. The tables require both groups to contribute the same proportion of their disposable income after satisfying Federal taxes and other expenses.

Verification of Student Aid Applicant Information

As a means of strengthening the effort to control abuse of student financial aid programs, the Secretary gives notice that procedures are being developed to verify information needed to determine the student's adjusted gross family income and the student's expected family contribution. Since the student's eligibility for interest benefits is determined solely on the basis of information supplied by the student, the student's spouse, and parents of dependent students, it is imperative that the data be accurate. The Secretary will issue regulations for the GSL Program which will describe the responsibilities of the Secretary, the institution and the student in verifying this information.

The regulations and procedures for the proposed verification process are being developed in consultation with the student financial aid community and are expected to take effect in the 1983-84 school year. It should be noted that the Secretary does not intend to discourage the continuation of established institutional verification procedures now in place.

Proposed Family Contribution Schedule for Use for 1984-85

Because section 9 of Pub. L. 97-301 dictated the content of the regulations for the 1983-84 family contribution schedule, the Secretary did not request public comment. The Secretary is concurrently publishing with these regulations a notice of proposed rulemaking for the 1984-85 GSL family contribution schedule. The Secretary proposes to use the regulations for the 1983-84 GSL family contribution schedule for the 1984-85 GSL family contribution schedule after making minor revisions. The development of the final rules for the 1984-85 family contribution schedule will take into consideration public comment received.

Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980

In accordance with the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (Pub. L. 96-511), the recordkeeping provisions that are included in these regulations have been or will be submitted for approval to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). These provisions (§ 682.612(b)(6)) are not effective until OMB approval has been obtained and the public notified to that effect through a notice published in the Federal Register.

Executive Order 12291

These regulations have been reviewed in accordance with Executive Order 12291.

They are classified as non-major because they do not meet the criteria for major regulations established in the order.

To assist the Department in complying with the specific requirements of Executive Order 12291 and the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 and their overall requirement of reducing regulatory burden, public comment is invited on whether there may be further opportunities to reduce any regulatory burdens found in these regulations and may be submitted to the address listed in this preamble.

Regulatory Flexibility Act Certification

The Secretary certifies that these regulations will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. These regulations establish the formula for determining student eligibility for interest benefits under the Guaranteed Student Loan Program. The regulations, therefore, do not have an impact on small entities.

Assessment of Educational Impact

The Secretary particularly requests comments on whether the regulations in this document would require transmission of information that is being gathered by or is available from any other agency or authority of the United States.

(Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance Number 84.032, Guaranteed Student Loan Program)

Dated: March 29, 1983.

T. H. Bell,

Secretary of Education.

The Secretary amends Part 682 of Title 34 of the Code of Federal Regulations as follows:

PART 682—GUARANTEED STUDENT LOAN PROGRAM§ 682.205 [Amended]

1. In § 682.205, paragraph (c) is amended by changing section number "§ 682.301" to read "§ 682.302."

Subpart C [Amended]

2. In the table of contents, Subpart C is amended by redesignating §§ 682.301 through 682.303 as §§ 682.302 through 682.304, respectively, and by adding both a new § 682.301 entitled, "Eligibility for interest benefits," and a new appendix entitled, "Appendix B to Part 682, Guaranteed Student Loan Program Tables for Determination of Expected Family Contribution."

§ 682.300 [Amended]

3. Section 682.300 is amended by removing paragraph (b) and by redesignating paragraphs (c) through (f) as paragraphs (b) through (e), respectively.

§§ 682.302 through 682.304 [Redesignated from §§ 682.301 through 682.303]

4. Sections 682.301 through 682.303 are redesignated as §§ 682.302 through 682.304, respectively.

5. A new § 682.301 is added to read as follows:

§ 682.301 Eligibility for interest benefits.

(a)(1) General (i) If a student's adjusted gross family income is $30,000 or less, the student qualifies for interest benefits for the amount of his or her loan.

(ii) If the student's adjusted gross family income is more than $30,000, the student qualifies for interest benefits if the institution he or she attends or is planning to attend determines that the student demonstrated financial need for the loan.

(2)(i) If the student demonstrates financial need for a loan of $1,000 or more, the student qualifies for interest benefits for the amount for which the student has demonstrated financial need.

(ii) If the student demonstrates financial need for a loan between $500 and $1,000, the student qualifies for interest benefits on a loan of up to $1,000.

(b) Application for interest benefits. To apply for interest benefits, the student shall submit to the lender with his or her loan application a statement from the student's institution that certifies—

(1) The estimated cost of attendance for the student for the academic period for which the loan is intended;

(2) The estimated financial assistance for the student for the academic period for which the loan is intended;

(3) The adjusted gross family income of the student's family; and

(4) The student's expected family contribution if his or her adjusted gross family income exceeds $30,000.

(c) Adjusted gross family income. The institution determines the adjusted gross family income of the student's family based upon data provided, and certified to, by each person whose income is required to be considered.

(1) The adjusted gross family income of the student's family means the adjusted gross income, as reported on the 1982 Federal income tax return(s), of—

- (i) The student;
- (ii) The student's spouse, if any; and
- (iii) The student's mother and father if the student, at the time he or she applies, is determined to be a "dependent student" rather than an "independent student;"

(2) A student whose parents are divorced or separated follows these procedures for reporting a parents adjusted gross income to determine the adjusted gross family income—

(i) Include only the income of the parent with whom the student resided for the greater portion of the 12-month period preceding the date of application.

(ii) If the preceding criterion does not apply, include only the income of the parent who provided the greater portion of the student's support for the 12-month period preceding the date of application.

(iii) If neither of the preceding criteria apply, include only the income of the parent who provided the greater support for the period commencing January 1, 1982 and ending 12 months prior to the date of application.

(3) If either of the parents has died, the student shall include only the income of the surviving parent. If both parents have died, the student shall not report any parental income.

(4) The following rule applies if either a parent whose income is taken into account under paragraph (c)(2) of this section, or a parent who is a widow or widower and whose income is taken into account under paragraph (c)(3) of this section, has remarried. The income of that parent's spouse shall be included in determining the adjusted gross family income if, in 1982 or 1983, the student—

- (i) Has received or will receive financial assistance of more than $750 from that spouse, or
- (ii) Has lived or will live for more than six weeks in the home of the parent and that spouse.

(5) For a student who is divorced or separated, or whose spouse has died, the spouse's income shall not be included in determining the adjusted gross family income.

(d) "Independent student" means:

(1) A single student who for 1982 and 1983—

(i) Has not lived and will not live for more than six weeks in the home of the parent(s) for whom income must be reported according to paragraph (c);

(ii) Has not been claimed and will not be claimed as a dependent for Federal income tax purposes by the parent(s) for whom income must be reported according to paragraph (c); and

(iii) Has not received and will not receive financial assistance of more than $750 from the parent(s) for whom income must be reported according to paragraph (c) or

(2) A married student who for 1983—

(i) Has not lived and will not live for more than six weeks in the home of the parent(s) for whom income must be reported according to paragraph (c); or

(ii) Has not been claimed and will not be claimed as a dependent for Federal income tax purposes by the parent(s) for whom income must be reported according to paragraph (c); and

(iii) Has not received and will not receive financial assistance of more than $750 from the parent(s) for whom income must be reported according to paragraph (c).

(3) However, if both parents have died, or the student has been declared a ward of the court, the student is independent.

(e) Determination of need. (1) If the student's adjusted gross family income exceeds $30,000 the institution shall determine the student's need for a loan by subtracting from the student's estimated cost of attendance his or her—

(i) Estimated financial assistance; and

(ii) Expected family contribution.

(2) The student shall certify to the accuracy of any information he or she provides to the institution which is necessary to determine need.

(f) Determination of expected family contribution. For a student who seeks a loan for a period of instruction beginning on or after July 1, 1983, but not later than June 30, 1984, the institution shall calculate his or her expected family contribution as follows:

(1) If the student has been awarded financial assistance for award year 1983-84 (July 1, 1983-June 30, 1984) under the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (SEOG), College Work-Study (CWS), or National Direct Student Loan (NDSL) program, at the time he or she applies for a Guaranteed Student Loan, the student's expected family contribution is his or her expected family contribution as calculated for the SEOG, CWS or NDSL program.

(2) If the student has not been awarded financial assistance under the SEOG, CWS, or NDSL program for the 1983-84 award year at the time he or she applies for a Guaranteed Student Loan, the student's expected family contribution is determined under either—

(i) Any need analysis system which has been approved by the Secretary for the SEOG, CWS, or NDSL program; or

(ii) The tables found in Appendix B if the student's adjusted gross family income does not exceed $75,000.

(20 U.S.C. 1078, 1082)

6. Section 682.612 is amended by redesignating paragraphs (b)(6) through (b)(12) as paragraphs (b)(7) through (b)(13), and by adding a new paragraph (b)(6) to read as follows:

§ 682.612 Records, reports, and inspection requirements for participating schools.

* * * * *

(b) * * *

(6) The data and certifications used to determine the student's adjusted gross family income and the student's expected family contribution.

* * * * *

7. An Appendix B to Part 682 is added to read as follows:

Appendix B to Part 682—Guaranteed Student Loan Program Tables for Determination of Expected Family Contribution

An institution may use the following tables to determine a student's expected family contribution under § 682.301.

For purposes of the four tables,

"Dependent student" means a student who does not qualify as an independent student;

"Independent student" is defined in § 682.301(d); and

"Adjusted gross income" is the adjusted gross family income as determined in § 682.301(c).

BILLING CODE 4000-01-M

Table A - EXPECTED FAMILY CONTRIBUTION FOR A DEPENDENT STUDENT FROM

A TWO-PARENT FAMILY

For a dependent student from a two-parent family, the educational institution determines the student's expected family contribution according to Table A. The amount obtained from the table is divided by the number of family members enrolled on at least a half-time basis in a postsecondary educational institution.

As used in Table A, "Family members" include the student, the student's spouse and their dependents, and the student's mother and father and their dependents. If the family includes a step-parent whose income is included in the adjusted gross family income, family members also include the step-parent and the dependents of the step-parent.

Table A is based on the following assumptions:

- * One of the two parents is employed,
- * No assets are considered, and
- * All of the family income was earned by the employed parent.

The conversion of adjusted gross income to the expected family contribution is performed by subtracting from the adjusted gross income the following:

--Federal income tax, based on standard deductions, computed at the rate applied to married taxpayers filing joint returns,

--F.I.C.A. (Social Security) for one wage earner,

--Average State and other taxes (8%), and

--A Standard Maintenance Allowance, based on the average non-discretionary living expenses for families derived from the Bureau of Labor Statistics low budget standard, as adjusted for inflation and family size. The Standard Maintenance Allowance does not include an allowance for living expenses of the dependent student for the 9 months of school because those living expenses are included in the student's cost of education.

To this balance, called "available income," which represents discretionary income, a conversion percentage is applied. The percentage increases as available income increases. The resulting value is the expected family contribution.

Table B - EXPECTED FAMILY CONTRIBUTION FOR A DEPENDENT STUDENT FROM A ONE-PARENT FAMILY

For a dependent student from a one-parent family, the educational institution determines the student's expected family contribution according to Table B. The amount obtained from the table is divided by the number of family members enrolled on at least a half-time basis in a postsecondary educational institution.

As used in Table B, "Family members" include the student, the student's spouse and their dependents, and the student's parent and the parent's dependents.

Table B is based on the following assumptions:

- * The parent is employed,
- * No assets are considered, and
- * All of the family income was earned by the parent.

The conversion of adjusted gross income to the expected family contribution is performed by subtracting from the adjusted gross income, the following:

- Federal income tax, based on standard deductions, computed at the rate applied to taxpayers who qualify as heads of households,
- F.I.C.A. (Social Security) for one wage earner,
- Average State and other taxes (9%),
- An employment allowance of 30% of income, to a maximum of $1,900, and
- A Standard Maintenance Allowance, based on the average non-discretionary living expenses for families and derived from the Bureau of Labor Statistics low budget standard, as adjusted for inflation and family size. The Standard Maintenance Allowance does not include an allowance for living expenses of the dependent student for the 9 months of school because those living expenses are included in the student's cost of education.

To this balance, called "available income," which represents discretionary income, a conversion percentage is applied. The percentage increases as available income increases. The resulting value is the expected family contribution. No deduction is made for living expenses of the student and his or her family because those expenses are included in the student's cost of education.

Table C - EXPECTED FAMILY CONTRIBUTION FOR A MARRIED INDEPENDENT STUDENT

For a married independent student, the educational institution determines the student's expected family contribution according to Table C. The amount obtained from the table is divided by the number of family members enrolled on at least a half-time basis in a postsecondary educational institution. The contributions set forth in Table C are based on a 12-month budget. If an educational institution calculates an independent student budget on a 9-month basis, it must multiply the contribution in the table by .75. No family assets are considered.

As used in Table C, "Family members" include the student, the student's spouse and their dependents.

The conversion of adjusted gross income to the expected family contribution is performed by subtracting from the adjusted gross income, the following:

--Federal income tax, based on standard deductions, computed at the rate applied to married taxpayers filing joint returns,

--F.I.C.A. (Social Security) for one wage earner, and

--Average State and other taxes (4%).

The resulting value is the expected family contribution. No deduction is made for living expenses of the student and his or her family because those expenses are included in the student's cost of education.

Table D -- EXPECTED FAMILY CONTRIBUTION FOR A SINGLE INDEPENDENT STUDENT

For a single independent student, the educational institution determines the student's expected family contribution according to Table D. The amount obtained from the table is divided by the number of family members enrolled on at least a half-time basis in a postsecondary educational institution. The contributions set forth in Table D are based on a 12-month budget. If an educational institution calculates an independent student budget on a 9-month basis, it must multiply the contribution in the table by .75. No family assets are considered.

As used in Table D, "Family members" include the student and the student's dependents.

The conversion of adjusted gross income to the expected family contribution is performed by subtracting from the adjusted gross income, the following:

- Federal income tax, based on standard deductions, computed at the rate applied to taxpayers who qualify as heads of households,
- F.I.C.A. (Social Security) for one wage earner, and
- Average State and other taxes (4%).

The resulting value is the expected family contribution. No deduction is made for living expenses for the student and his or her family because those expenses are included in the student's cost of education.
