

exists, authorize owners and operators of any facility which would qualify for interim status under the Federal program to remain in operation until a final decision is made on the permit application, or until interim status terminates pursuant to 40 CFR § 270.73(c)-(f). When State law authorizes such continued operation it shall require compliance by owners and operators of such facilities with standards at least as stringent as EPA's interim status standards at 40 CFR Part 265.

6. In Section 271.17 Paragraph (c) is revised to read as follows:

§ 271.17 Sharing of information.

(c)(1) The State program must provide for the public availability of information obtained by the State regarding facilities and sites for the treatment, storage, and disposal of hazardous waste. Such information must be made available to the public in substantially the same manner, and to the same degree, as would be the case if the Administrator was carrying out the provisions of Subtitle C of RCRA in the State.

(2) A State must revise its program to comply with this section in accordance with § 271.21(e)(2)(ii). Interim authorization under § 271.24 is not available to demonstrate compliance with this section.

7. § 271.21 is amended by revising paragraph (e) and adding paragraph (f) to read as follows:

§ 271.21 Procedures for revision of State programs.

(e)(1) As the Federal program changes, authorized State programs must be revised to remain in compliance with this subpart.

(2) Federal program changes are defined for purposes of this section as promulgated amendments to 40 CFR Parts 124, 270, or 260-266 and any self-implementing statutory provisions (i.e., those taking effect without prior implementing regulations) which are listed as State program requirements in this subpart. States must modify their programs to reflect Federal program changes and must subsequently submit the modifications to EPA for approval.

(i) For Federal program changes occurring before July 1, 1984, the State program must be modified within one year of the date of the Federal program change.

(ii) Except as provided in paragraph (e)(2)(iii) of this section, for Federal program changes occurring on or after July 1, 1984, the State program must be modified by July 1 of each year to reflect all changes to the Federal program occurring during the 12 months preceding the previous July 1. (For example, States must modify their programs by July 1, 1986 to reflect all changes from July 1, 1984 to June 30, 1985.)

(iii) For Federal program changes identified in § 271.1(j) that occur between November 8, 1984 and July 30, 1987 (inclusive), the State program must be modified by July 1, 1988.

(iv) States may have an additional year to modify their programs for those changes to the Federal program identified in paragraphs (e)(2)(i), (ii), and (iii) of this section which necessitate a State statutory amendment.

(3) The deadlines in paragraphs (e)(2)(i)-(iv) may be extended by the Regional Administrator upon an adequate demonstration by a State that it has made a good faith effort to meet these deadlines and that its legislative or rulemaking procedures render the State unable to do so. No such extension shall exceed six months.

(4) Within 30 days of the completion of the State program modification the State must submit to EPA the documentation described in paragraph (b) of this section to revise its program.

(f) A State must modify its program to comply with any Federal program changes which occur during the period beginning one year prior to submission of the official application and ending on the day that final authorization is received. Such State program modifications must be completed and submitted by the deadlines specified in paragraph (e) of this section or by the date of final authorization, whichever is later.

8. Section 271.24 is revised to read as follows:

§ 271.24 Interim Authorization under section 3006(g) of RCRA.

(a) Any State which is applying for or has been granted final authorization pursuant to section 3006(b) of RCRA may submit to the Administrator evidence that its program contains (or has been amended to include) any requirement which is substantially equivalent to a requirement identified in § 271.1(j) of this chapter. Such a State may request interim authorization under section 3006(g) of RCRA to carry out the State requirement in lieu of the Administrator carrying out the Federal requirement.

(b) The applications shall be governed by the procedures for program revisions in § 271.21(b) of this chapter.

(c) Interim authorization pursuant to this section expires on July 1, 1991.

§ 271.121 [Amended]

9. Section 271.121 is amended by redesignating the first paragraph immediately following the note to paragraph (h) as paragraph (i).

Medicare Program; Standardized Per Capita Rates of Payments for Health Maintenance Organizations and Competitive Medical Plans for 1986

AGENCY: Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA), HHS.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: This notice sets forth the standardized per capita rates of payments and demographic cost factors that will be applied in calculating payment rates for health maintenance organizations and competitive medical plans for contract periods beginning in calendar year 1986. It also explains the methodology that is used in calculating the adjusted average per capita cost.

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 1, 1986.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

Section 1876 of the Social Security Act (the Act), as amended by section 114 of the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 (Pub. L. 97-248), authorizes Medicare reimbursement for health care services to eligible health maintenance organizations (HMOs) and competitive medical plans (CMPs) on a prospective basis for those entities that have a risk contract. Implementing regulations were issued in a new 42 CFR Part 417 in the Federal Register of January 10, 1985 (50 FR 1314).

Section 1876(a)(1)(A) of the Act requires the Secretary to determine annually a per capita rate of payment for each class of individuals who are enrolled with HMOs or CMPs with risk contracts. The per capita rate of payment for each class of individuals is equal to 95 percent of the adjusted average per capita cost (AAPCC) for that class of individuals. The rates of payment currently in effect were issued in the addendum to the January 10, 1985 final rule. As required by 42 CFR 417.584(b)(2) of our regulations, we have notified HMOs and CMPs that have risk contracts with us of the standardized per capita rates of payments that will be applicable to contract periods beginning in calendar year 1986. This notice is intended to make these rates more widely available.

We have received a number of inquiries concerning the calculation of the AAPCC. In particular, we have been questioned about the statistical and demographic data that are used. Geographic specific Medicare statistics and estimates of an area's Medicare population demographics are used in calculating each area's AAPCC. The methodology that we use in the calculations is explained in sections II-IV of this notice. Copies of the statistical and demographic data used in calculating the AAPCC for a particular area may be obtained for a charge by submitting a request under the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) to the following address: Ross Cirincione, Chief, Freedom of Information Branch, Health Care Financing Administration, Room 619, East High Rise Building, 6325 Security Boulevard, Baltimore, Maryland 21207.

The charge for this data is based primarily on the number of counties for which data are being requested and the number of different States in which the counties are located. The minimum charge is approximately $70.

For further information concerning the calculation of demographic cost factors, contact: Ravi Jain, (301) 594-1022.

II. AAPCC Methodology for the Implementation of Prospective Risk Contracts for HMOs and CMPs

The Medicare program pays monthly per capita payments in advance to an HMO or CMP with a risk contract for each Medicare eligible individual enrolled with the organization under the risk contract. In order to determine the appropriate payments, each enrollee is assigned to a demographic class based on age, sex, Medicare entitlement status, institutionalization, and Medicaid status. The annual rate of the payment for each enrollee is set at 95 percent of the AAPCC for the demographic class to which that enrollee is assigned.

The AAPCC applicable to a demographic class is a prospective estimate of the average per capita amount that would be payable by Medicare in the contract year for a group of similarly classified Medicare eligibles in a certain geographic area if services were to be furnished by other than an eligible organization in the same or a similar geographic area. Thus, the AAPCC is a prospective estimate of Medicare cost levels by demographic category, in the fee-for-service (that is, noneligible organization) sector of the geographic area.

A set of AAPCC values is calculated at the county level for all Medicare insureds except those having end-stage renal disease (ESRD), in which case the calculation is performed at the State level because of the relatively small size of this segment of the population. The calculation of AAPCC values that are applicable to a future calendar year is developed in four conceptually basic steps:

1. Medicare national average calendar year per capita costs are projected for the future year under consideration.

2. Geographic adjustment factors that reflect the historical relationships between the county's and the nation's per capita costs are used to convert the national average per capita costs to the county level.

3. Expected Medicare per capita costs for the county are adjusted (by removing both reimbursement and enrollment attributable to Medicare beneficiaries in eligible organizations under contract with HCFA) to a fee-for-service basis.

4. The fee-for-service Medicare per capita is disaggregated into its demographically defined component parts to produce a set of county AAPCC values. These steps are discussed in greater detail below.

Step 1.—The national average per capita costs to the Medicare program are projected for the future calendar year under consideration. These numbers are known as the United States per capita costs (USPCCs) and are the estimated average incurred benefit costs per Medicare enrollee, loaded for carrier and intermediary expenses.

For each of Part A (Hospital Insurance) and Part B (Supplementary Medical Insurance) of Medicare, the USPCCs are developed separately for the aged, the disabled, and those beneficiaries having end-stage renal disease (ESRD). The estimates that are used as the basis for the USPCCs are recent Medicare cost estimates prepared by the actuaries in the Office of the Actuary within HCFA.

Carrier and intermediary expense loadings are calculated separately for Part A and Part B as the ratio of cash administrative expenses to cash benefits. The administrative expense amounts are obtained from reports of HCFA's Division of Contractor Financial Management. The cash benefits amounts are obtained from reports of the U.S. Treasury's Division of Financial Management. Monthly USPCCs are calculated for the future calendar year as:

$$\frac{1}{12} \times \frac{(\text{annual incurred benefit outlays})}{(\text{projected enrollment})} \times (1.0 + \text{loading factor})$$

$$\text{loading factor} = \frac{(\text{cash administrative expenses})}{(\text{cash benefit outlays})}$$

Step 2.—After the USPCCs have been determined, national costs to the Medicare program are adjusted to a county level. For each of Parts A and B, the historical relationship between the county per capita cost and the national per capita cost is established separately for the aged, the disabled, and the ESRD beneficiaries, and is used to make the adjustment. These per capita costs are developed from the entire Medicare enrollment and the aggregate amount of claims paid. No sample population is involved.

Calculations of county and national per capita costs are based on reimbursement and enrollment data tabulated in Medicare's statistical system along with reimbursement data provided by HCFA's Group Health Plans Operations Staff (GHPOS). The reimbursement data provided by GHPOS represents payments excluded from Medicare's statistical system that were made to health care prepayment plans (HCPPs) and HMOs dealing directly with HCFA.

The statistical system data is tabulated by county of the beneficiary's residence as well as by coverage (Part A or Part B) and Medicare eligibility status (aged, disabled, or ESRD). The GHPOS reimbursement data is listed only by coverage and by the prepaid plan to which it was paid. Consequently, one of two approximation methods is used to allocate the GHPOS reimbursement amounts by county of residence and by Medicare eligibility status.

Since service areas and enrollment mixes are not uniform among the prepaid plans, the allocations are performed separately for each plan. The allocation is made on the basis of the distribution of the plan's Medicare membership by county of residence. If the membership by county is not available, the overall Medicare enrollment by county is used as the basis for allocation. Once a GHPOS reimbursement allocation is made to the county, the amount is added to the statistical system's reimbursement amount for that county, giving the total reimbursement for the county.

County per capita costs for each of the five most recent available years are then calculated as follows:

$$\frac{(\text{statistical system reimbursement} + \text{GHPOS reimbursement})}{(\text{statistical system enrollment})}$$

National per capita costs for each of the five years involved are similarly calculated using reimbursement and enrollment data applicable to the entire nation.

If CPCC, and NPCC, respectively represent the county and national per capita costs in year i , then the geographic index for year i is:

$$GI_i = \text{CPCC}_i / \text{NPCC}_i$$

The adjustment factor to be applied to the USPCC is the unweighted average of the geographic indices for the five years. This factor is known as the "geographic adjustment" (GA):

$$GA = (GI_1 + GI_2 + \dots + GI_5) / 5$$

Application of this factor to the contract year USPCC is used to adjust the projected national per capita cost to the county level:

$$\text{Projected County Per Capita Cost} = GA \times \text{USPCC}$$

For that portion of the population having end-stage renal disease, the relationship between the State per capita cost and the national per capita cost is used to make the geographic adjustment. State data rather than county data are used because of the relatively small size of this segment of the population.

Step 3.—At this point, six per capita cost figures have been calculated for the county. For each of Parts A and B, there is a separate cost for each of the aged, disabled, and renal disease populations. These costs are averages for the entire county (or State for the renal disease beneficiaries) and therefore include the reimbursement and enrollment totals of prepaid health plans. The third step is to remove, from the county (or State) per capita cost, the incurred cost and enrollment of any eligible organization that serves the county and is under contract with HCFA. This is accomplished by subtracting the combined projected total of the organization's incurred costs and enrollments from the entire county's (or State's) Medicare cost and enrollment. The per capita cost is then recalculated.

Step 4.—In the final step, the recalculated county per capita cost is converted into rates that vary according to certain demographic variables: age, sex, Medicaid status, and institutional status. (For purposes of this methodology, an institutionalized individual is a Medicare beneficiary who has been a resident for at least 30 days of a nursing home, sanatorium, rest home, convalescent home, long-term care hospital, or domiciliary home, and a Medicaid individual is a Medicare beneficiary who has been determined by the Medicaid agency of the State in which he or she resides to be eligible for Medicaid.) For each of the aged and disabled, there are thirty cells for each of Parts A and B, corresponding to different combinations of these variables (see Table 1). The factor shown in each cell is the ratio of the cost for a Medicare beneficiary having that particular demographic-cell characteristic to the average per capita cost. These relative cost factors are referred to as demographic factors, and were developed from the last three years (1974-76) of the Current Medicare Survey, incorporating roughly 20,000 Medicare beneficiary-years of observations.

Although, the relative estimated cost effects of institutional and Medicaid eligibility status have not changed since collection of the Current Medicare Survey data, the relative effects of age and sex are updated periodically based on Medicare cost experience. Therefore, the updated demographic cost factors for 1986 are shown in Table I below. Through the use of these demographic factors, the county per capita cost is converted into rates. A detailed methodology for this step is discussed below. However, no demographic adjustment is made to the state per capita cost for those beneficiaries having end-stage renal disease.

For the county, there will be thirty rates for each of Parts A and B, for the aged and disabled populations separately. For each Medicare eligible enrolled under the risk contract, Medicare will pay the organization 95 percent of the rate corresponding to the demographic class to which the beneficiary is assigned.

III. Conversion of County Per Capita Costs Into Rates

The AAPCC methodology adjusts for age, sex, Medicaid status, and institutional status of the Medicare beneficiaries in a given county.¹ Table 1 shows the demographic cells used in this adjustment. The adjustment process hinges on the demographic factors (DF_i for each demographic cell i) developed from the Current Medicare Survey. Each factor relates the Medicare cost for a person in that demographic cell to the cost for the average Medicare beneficiary (factor=1.00). Because of rounding and shifts in the demographic distribution of the Medicare population, it is possible that the average demographic factor for the entire Medicare population would not be exactly 1.00, although it should be close to that value. Demographic distributions for a given county could lead to an average demographic factor other than 1.00. The extent of institutionalization can be extremely volatile, especially for a small county. Medicaid entitlement can vary dramatically by State. Even age-sex differences can have an impact. This problem of county demographic variations is addressed by adjusting the county fee-for-service per capita costs (PCC_{fs}) to the theoretical level, K , that would result if the county demographic distribution were such as to give an average demographic factor of 1.00. This is accomplished simply by dividing PCC_{fs} by the average demographic factor for the county calculated by using the actual fee-for-service county population ($_{fs}P_i$ for each demographic cell i):

$$K = PCCV_{fs} \times \frac{(_{fs}P_1 + \dots + _{fs}P_{30})}{(_{fs}P_1 \cdot DF_1 + \dots + _{fs}P_{30} \cdot DF_{30})}$$

This calculation (and, in fact, the entire AAPCC calculation) must be done separately for each of aged Part A, aged Part B, disabled Part A, and disabled Part B beneficiaries.

Demographic adjustments are not made for Medicare beneficiaries with end-stage renal disease because we cannot determine the significance of demographics in determining the cost for people having this rare and extremely costly condition. After the county fee-for-service per capita cost has been standardized for demographic variables, yielding a value for K as defined above, it is possible to estimate the amount that those in a given demographic cell would have cost Medicare had they not been enrolled in a prepaid health plan, simply by multiplying K by DF_i for each cell i . This procedure allows 95 percent of the AAPCC to be prepared as a set of rates, $R_i = .95 \cdot K \cdot DF_i$, varying according to the demographic cells shown in Tables 1.

IV. Determination of Monthly Per Capita Rates of Payment for Contract Periods Beginning in 1986

Table 2 sets forth the standardized per capita rates of payment by county. These standardized per capita rates of payment represent 95 percent of the standardized county per capita cost. As mentioned above, these rates must be multiplied by the updated demographic cost factors shown in Table 1 to give the actual per capita rates of payment for each county. The following is an example of how the actual per capita rates of payment will be calculated for a particular county.

Sample Calculation of the Per Capita Rates of Payment for Autauga County, Alabama

For each county, there will be thirty rates of payment for each of aged Part A, disabled Part A, aged Part B, and disabled Part B. These rates vary according to the demographic cells shown in Table 1.

The rates for Autauga County, Alabama are presented below in table form. The thirty rates for each part are calculated by multiplying the county standardized per capita rates obtained from Table 2 by the corresponding demographic factors in Table 1. For example, Table 2 shows that the aged Part A standardized per capita rate is $116.42. Table 1 shows that the aged Part A demographic factors for male noninstitutionalized Medicaid enrollees range from 1.30 (ages 65-69) to 2.35 (ages 85 and over).

Age group	Demographic cost factor	Standardized per capita rate	95 percent of AAPCC rates
85 and over	2.35	$116.42	$273.59
80 to 84	2.35	116.42	273.59
75 to 79	2.05	116.42	238.66
70 to 74	1.65	116.42	192.09
65 to 69	1.30	116.42	151.35

Multiplying each of these factors by the standardized per capita rate gives the corresponding per capita rates of payment shown in the sample table set forth below.

As a further example, the disabled Part B noninstitutionalized non-Medicaid rate ($55.70) for a female age 57 can be calculated by multiplying the demographic factor for her age group (1.10) by the appropriate standardized per capita rate ($50.64).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Office of Management and Budget

Federal Agencies Responsible for Cost Negotiation and Audit of State and Local Governments

Agency: Office of Management and Budget.

Action: Notice of Cognizant Agency Assignments.

Summary: This notice transmits a revised list of Federal agencies responsible for administering the provisions of OMB Circular A-87, "Cost Principles for State and Local Governments," and OMB Circular A-128, "Audits of State and Local Governments."

In the past OMB has assigned cognizance separately for cost allocation and for audit. The revised list combines the assignments and makes one Federal agency responsible for both requirements. Federal agencies assigned cognizance under this notice shall remain cognizant for a period of three years.

The revised list replaces cognizant agency assignments published in the Federal Register on February 28, 1980, and October 6, 1980. The revised list also replaces audit assignments for local governments included in the Director of OMB's Memorandum to Departments and Agencies dated March 2, 1982.

For Further Information Contact: Marvin E. Saunders, Financial Management Division, Office of Management and Budget, Washington, DC 20503, (202) 395-3993.

Supplemental Information: On February 27, 1985, OMB requested comments from the major grantmaking agencies on a proposed revision to the cognizant agency assignments. Comments received from the agencies were analyzed and considered in developing the revised list included in this notice.

The revised list assigns cognizance under Circulars A-87 and A-128 for most governmental units included in the 1980 and 1982 lists. Where organizational changes have occurred at the State and local levels, appropriate cognizant agency assignments have been made for the new government entities. Cognizant agency assignments have been made for all States, including State agencies, Territorial governments, Indian tribal governments, and larger local governments are also included. Those State departments and local units of government not listed should deal with the Federal agency providing them the most funds.

Generally, the new assignments make the same Federal agency responsible for cost negotiation and for audit. The only exception is for statewide cognizance. Under Circular A-87, the Department of Health and Human Services has negotiated statewide cost allocation plans for all States, plus the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. OMB sees no reason for change. Consequently, in many cases the Federal agencies assigned statewide responsibility for cost negotiation and the lead agency¹ for audit will be different.

The following Federal agencies will continue to be responsible for audit and approval of cost allocation plans and general oversight of single audits.

Economic development districts	DOC
Hospital, library, and health districts	HHS

¹ Lead agencies for audit are designated in the list by an asterisk. For local governments the asterisk also indicates the Federal agency responsible for negotiating cost allocation plans. Federal agencies assigned as lead agencies should represent the interest of other Federal audit agencies in carrying out the cognizant agency responsibilities for single audit of State and local governments. Federal agencies assigned audit cognizance for State and local departmental units shall cooperate with and assist the lead agency in carrying out the requirement for the single audit.

Because of frequent changes in Federal agency funding levels of State and local recipients requiring changes in cognizant assignments, several agencies have suggested that the term of the cognizance assignments be fixed. OMB agrees that this would be useful and has established the period of assignments at three years. During that time cognizant agencies requiring help in accomplishing its assignments may request assistance from other agencies. However, the assigned cognizant agency shall continue to be responsible under this directive. After three years the Federal agency or the recipient may request OMB to consider a change in the cognizant assignment if circumstances warrant.

James C. Miller III,

Director.
