Agency for Health Care Policy and Research; Assistance of Medical Technology

The Public Health Service's (PHS) Agency for Health Care Policy and Research, through the Office of Health Technology Assessment (OHTA), announced on November 14, 1989 that it is performing an assessment of the safety, clinical effectiveness, and indications for use of cardiac rehabilitation program services for percutaneous transluminal coronary angioplasty (PTCA) and cardiac valve surgery patients Federal Register Vol. 54, No. 218:47411. The assessment is currently underway.

In this notice, OHTA announces that it is also including the subgroup of cardiac transplant patients in the assessment. Specifically, we are interested in knowing whether there are significant advantages of cardiac rehabilitation program services for cardiac transplant patients. If these services prove to be safe and clinically effective, what are the specific indications for their use and how many courses of therapy are reasonable and necessary?

The PHS assessment consists of a synthesis of published literature and information obtained from appropriate organizations in the private sector and from OS agencies and others in the Federal Government. PHS assessments are based on the most current knowledge concerning the safety, clinical effectiveness, and appropriate uses of a technology. Based on this assessment a PHS recommendation will be formulated to assist the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) in establishing Medicare coverage policy. The information being sought is a review and assessment of past, current, and planned research related to this technology, as well as a bibliography of published, controlled clinical trials and other well designed clinical studies. Information related to the characterization of the patient population most likely to benefit, as well as on the clinical acceptability and effectiveness of this technology and extent of use is also being sought. Any person or group wishing to provide OHTA with information relevant to this assessment should do so in writing no later than October 30, 1990 or 90 days from the date of publication of this notice.

For purposes of evaluation by the interested scientific community, it is helpful to include attributions for the comments cited in OHTA assessments. In addition, information submitted in response to notices such as this is often requested by interested individuals or groups. Without a written consent, the names of individuals or other information that might result in the identification of individuals who provide comments will not be disclosed and will be kept confidential in accordance with 42 U.S.C. 299a-1(c) and title IX of the Public Health Service Act, section 903(c). Please indicate as part of the response whether disclosure is acceptable.

Written material should be submitted to: Director, Office of Health Technology Assessment, Agency for Health Care Policy and Research, 5600 Fishers Lane, Room 18-40, Rockville, Maryland 20857, (301) 443-4990.

Dated: July 26, 1990.
